'Indian Weavers'

Indian Weavers is a short poem where the poet talks about three types of garment that the weavers weave at three particular times of a day. Each stanza of the poem represents the three important events of human life: birth (childhood), adulthood (young) and death (old). The colours mentioned in the stanzas are very significant as they indicate the moods related to the events.

- The poet delicately weaves together the vibrant tapestry of India's rich cultural heritage and the timeless rhythm of life.
- This enchanting poem takes readers on a journey through the hands of skilled weavers, whose intricate craft is not just a livelihood but a symbolic reflection of the human experience.
